Here it is early January and many plants are beginning to break their dormancy. Forsythia shows a bit of yellow, there is a scattered showing of strawberry blooms and tulips, daffodils and iris are throwing out some greenery.

We have Appomattox weather data dating back to 1938 and we find that 53.50 inches of rain in 1971 is the largest amount in 33 years.

There has been only five years when the total exceeded 50 inches. In fact this was the first year since 1961 that the rainfall has been over 40 inches. In 1961 we had 50.56 inches.

1945 came closest to equaling the '71 record when we had 53.44 inches.

Some tobacco growers have plant beds seeded and ready to go. December was an excellent month to get things ready.

This week we'll be working with John Wilson, B. J. Licado and Ed Harvey. We are using some new materials for hog, lice and mange control.

If you are one of the lucky ones who received a potted plant for Christmas you'll find it difficult to duplicate the condition from whence it came.

For most plants the best to treat them as long lasting cut flowers. Enjoy their beauty as long as possible but don't be sad when they become unattractive and must be discarded.

Cattlemen should be on the lookout for winter tetney or grass tetney.

The cause is a deficiency of blood magnesium which can be corrected by supplementing the mineral ration with magnesium sulfate.

Within a few days some farmers will receive a questionnaire from the Bureau of the census. The census does not have been selected: tobacco, cotton, other specialized field crops, cash grain, vegetables, fruit livestock, dairy and poultry.

Producers who have more than one large enterprise will receive a form for each enterprise.

If you are on the mailing list for this special report you are urged to cooperate with the census people.

The ladies are usually looking for something different.

Until this fall I had never seen flowering cabbage and flowering kale. Its a beautiful border plant. With all of the seed catalogs coming in I found one major supplier is offering seeds of these plants.

If you want something distinctly different this summer try some of these.

ROMANI HODI ERNI

The third meeting of the Romani Hodierni Club was held on December 21, 1971. The president called the meeting and the secretary read the minutes. We also discussed old business. The meeting then was turned over to the program committee. Our program was called "O Holy Night," Several members of our class helpr esent it. The meeting was then adjourned.

Good Resolution Offered By Local Postmaster

One good resolution that could have good results --Use complete addresses on ALL MAIL, included is the suggestion of H. W. (Billy) Conner, Appomattox Postmaster.

The "oldtimers" around the office know postal routes and people very well, he explains, but there are replacements from time to time -- new postal workers who can get the mail where it's going a lot faster with box numbers route numbers and all -- in proper places. So - PLEASE help our and use a complete address EVERY TIME!

Your Farm Bureau Program

Farm Bureau will be opposed to any major tax increase when the 1972 General Assembly opens in Richmond Jan. 12, according to Earl Pickett president of Appomattox County Farm Bureau.

"We feel that state agencies and institutions should be required to operate within the normal increases in revenue that will be realized from current sources of taxation, as a result of the growth in Virginia's economy," said Pickett.

These views, and positions on other issues were conveyed to area legislators at recent Farm Bureau legislative conferences held with lawmakers.

Farm Bureau, with more than 25,000 family members in Virginia, has taken positions on some 80 issues which may come before the 1972 General Assembly. Of these, 15 have been singled out as priority items and will be pushed during the upcoming session.

County Farm Bureau President Pickett said these priority positions include such issues as supporting the earmarking of funds to operate departments of family practice at Virginia's two medical schools; opposition to legislation to increase tobacco tax; support of greater local control of welfare; updating our eminent domain laws to provide greater protection for the landowner; and the support of certain agricultural and marketing research funds at VPI & SU.

In the field of water and air pollution, the County President said the Farm Bureau favors specific legislation to insure long range success and protection of people.

"First, we support consolidation of state agencies with responsibility in this area to generate more efficiency," Pickett stated.

"Second," he said, "we call for specific legislation designed to protect the farmer or anyone against unwarranted court action in those cases where the individual has met all legal requirements as related to air and water pollution."

The county Farm Bureau president said his organization supports lowering the presumptive level for drunken driving from .15 to .10 per cent, and said Farm Bureau calls for the breath test in Virginia.

On the education issue, Earl Pickett said that his organization felt that the best way to insure the continuation of a sound system is to insure local control.

"We support only those measures by the legislature that are designed to strengthen education at the local level," Pickett said. "We support legislation to ammend the school aid distribution formula to recognize the difference in ability of localities to support education.

"Until such a formula can be developed," he added, "We support action basing the current formula on average membership instead of attendance."

The Farm Bureau president says that further details on the various programs will be forthcoming in other issues of the TIMES-VIRGINIAN.

Shut-Ins Friend Honored

The Kingsport, Tennessee Sertoma Club recently presented its Service to Mankind Award to a Kingsport widow who spent much of her time caring for seventy-five shut-ins in the community.

Mrs. George Wirtley Taylor, the former Gladys Martin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Blackwell Martin of Oakville, Appomattox County, went to Kingsport forty years ago where she resides at 1216 Watango Street. For the past twenty years she has given much of her time to visiting shut-ins, taking them cheer, news, gifts and food that she has prepared.

"Gladys has always had a deep concern for people" said the friend, Fred Gilette, who nominated her for the award. "You have not seen her picture in the paper, nor heard her on the radio, or television, because she is a very modest person and perfers no publicity".

"At the present time she has 75 shut-ins that she visits each month. She is a lady of action. She goes into a home and sees something that needs to be done, such as making a bed, washing dishes, or preparing a meal". She does not say, "I will get someone to do it for you", she does it.

"When there is a death in the family, she is there to help in anyway she can".

Once, when someone asked why she gave so much time and effort to serve humanity, Mrs. Taylor gave the following reply: She really liked to do it because she loved people and was given her good health to do this work; She has the means; and this fulfills her desire to be of service to mankind.

Mrs. Taylor is the mother of a son, George W. Taylor, Jr. of Kingsport, Tennessee; a daughter, Mrs. William M. Martin, (Elizabeth) of Columbia, S. C. and three grand - children George Taylor III, William M. Martin, Jr. and Catherine Anne Martin.

She also has two step-daughters, Mrs. Broughton Hutchins and Mrs. D. A. Henderson, both of Kingsport, ten step-grandchildren and five step-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Taylor is also the sister of Mrs. Melvin Drinkard of Oakville; Mrs. Charles T. Moses, Jr. of Appomattox; Mrs. Burnette Smith of Lynchburg, Mrs. L. K. BUSSEY, Jr., of Roanoke and Mrs. Marshall Hunter of Raleigh, West, Virginia.

YMCA To Hold Reunions

The YMCA will hold two reunions in January for anyone who has ever attended Camp Rochichi either as a camper or counselor.

The camp, which has been in existence since 1937 and was formerly known as Camp Bibee, is located on Buggs Island Lake seven miles east of Clarksville, Virginia.

Although campers have come from all parts of the country, the majority come from Virginia and North Carolina. The reunions are being held to give the camp community the opportunity to see each other again and talk over old times. Slides will be shown to inform "old timers" of changes that have been made and new programs for the 1972 camp season will be described.

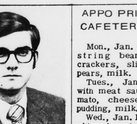
The first reunion will be held in Lynchburg on January 15 at The Homestead and the second will be held at Ernie's Restaurant in South Boston on January 16. Entertainment will be provided by the "Amherechos" and the "Rainedrops." The first group consists of more than thirty high school students who sing mostly popmusic and the second group is the James River Bluegrass family. The guest speaker for the reunions will be Houston Wheeler, a social worker from Louisville Kentucky, who was selected as the camp's most outstanding counselor in 1965. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Wheeler of Lynchburg.

Reservations must be made with the Lynchburg office of the YMCA by January 10.

ST. LUKE

Rev. J. E. McLaughlin is a patient in a hospital in Danville, Va., to take treatment.

Rev. J. L. Mumy was in charge of the regular preaching services at the St. Luke Baptist Church Sunday, Jan. 2, 1972, His text was from Amos 4th 1 Sub. Prepare to meet God. The Choir sang impressive hymns. A sizable crowd attended.



ROBERT E. TRENT, JR.
